SIX ARRESTED AND ARE JAILED

City Marshal Price Rounds up Sextette of Suspects by his Lonely

JOHNSON HOME ROBBED

Money and Jewelry Taken—Farm Hand now Suspicioned and Hoboes are Released

The people on the down-town streets were treated to an unusual sight this morning when City Marshal Price came down the street with six men under arrest, all of them cowed to the extent of peacefully walking along with him, and lined up as so many Chinese in front of an officer on their way to jail.

Yesterday [the home of Lafayette Johnson, west of this city, was robbed and two gold watches and forty-five dollars in money was taken. Johnson's son was of the opinion that the place had been robbed by tramps seen in that vicinity. And in corroboration of this belief the officials were notified today that a stranger was seen offering a watch for sale in the west part of the city. On learning of this the city marshal hurried to the various railroad yards and was paid for his efforts when he came upon six hoboes at the C., H. & D. freight depot in the act of getting aboard an east bound freight train. He called for them to "come ashore," and seeing the officer meant business and was big enough to back up the "big words" he was delivering, they did as he commanded. The six men were taken to jail and searched. Nothing of any consequence was found upon their persons.

Later it developed that the finger of suspicion was pointing straight at a hired hand, who until yesterday was in the employ of Johnson. It is said that he has mysteriously disappeared and along with him went the money and jewelry, for he knew where it was kept about the house. It is said that he left on the traction line late Sunday evening, getting on at stop 24 near the Johnson farm. The man had been employed on the farm but a few weeks and was a stranger in this community. The six transients were released and given "tie passes" out of the city.

OLD ACCOUNTS ARE GIVEN ATTENTION

Local Merchants Already Appreciate Value of Black List to be Compiled

Collections of old accounts among the business men of Rushville have been exceedingly good within the past few days.

The Business Men's Protective Association will positively compile a "dead beat black list," and all chronic delinquents will find it a difficult matter to secure credit in the future, if their names appear on the list, for virtually every business man in the city has joined the association.

Quite a few are arranging to pay their old bills by weekly installments, for as long as they show the proper spirit, their names will be omitted.
But two or three weeks remain to square old accounts.

COUNTRY SCHOOL HAS THE SEVEN-YEAR ITCH

A country school near the Rush-Decatur county line, is infested with an affliction which closely resembles the "Seven-year Itch," and the county Board of Health is investigating.

FIRE DEPARTMENT WAS CALLED AT AN EARLY HOUR

Small Blaze Started at Houser's Bakery—But Little Damage Done

The fire department was called out this morning at 5:30 o'clock to the shed in the rear of Houser's bakery, in which had started a small blaze.

The fire originated by the blaze in the even creeping out through a crack in the brick wall, which ignited the woodwork around the oven.

The department stretched their line of hose, but it was not needed as the fire was soon extinguished by the use of buckets.

YOUNG MAN ILL TAKEN TO JAIL

New England Boy Far From Home Tells a Pitiable Story

WAS ALMOST EXHAUSTED

Said he Would Rather Starve Than Beg Bread to Eat

Half starved and in feeble condition, Officer Wm. Pea found a young man at the water and light plant Sunday night, who gave his name as John Rice and his home as Warwick, Rhode Island.

The young man told a pitiable story of his past. He said he had left home about six years ago; a home wherein were all the luxuries of life, to see the unfriendly world, and life had been everything but pleasant since.

The unfortunate man says that he was out of work and money and his timidity would not permit him to beg bread even if he starved.

He came to this city from Ft. Wayne in the hopes that he might find work and his exposure has been the cause of him contracting a severe cold which threatens to terminate in pneumonia.
Rice was taken to the county jail and Dr. Wooden was called to attend him. It may be several days before he is able to be out. He says his people are well-to-do New Englanders.

GAFFEY'S "GAFF" THROWN INTO 'EM

Fine Appearing Young Man Said to be a Swindler—Was Square Here

Reports from various parts of the State come to the effect that F.
L. Gaffey, who recently compiled a business men's directory and Catholic church calendar in this city, has been "doing" Indiana is great style. By a good appearance and gentlemanly conduct and speech he soon wins the confidence of the people of a community and leaves them wiser in the world's experience and poorer in purse.
Rev. E. J. Spellman, of New Castle, sent out a letter of warning last week, saying he did not wish others to be taken in as they believed they were in that city.

THE WEATHER

THOUGHT IT BE ANOTHER FAKE

Letter Received by Local Firm was Written in Spanish Hand

WAS ON FILE SOME TIME

When a Young Daniel was Called to Interpret it—Found to be an Order

"What's this?" said one of the officials in the Madden & Co., foundry office a few days ago upon opening a letter written in a Spanish hand.
"Surely they are not trying to gold brick us because we are in the brick machine manufacturing business, and hand us one of those Spanish heires stories like Ira Ayres got."

No one around the works could make heads or tails of the missive for it looked like so many chicken tracks to them. Several days it remained on file. Finally they hit upon the idea of having it translated.
Upon inquiry they learned that Spanish was not in the curriculum of the local schools, neither was there anyone familiar with the language, except some of the 161st regiment boys who went to Cuba; but the extent of their knowledge of things ended with a few "cuss" words and an order for a cup of wine. The letter was placed on file again. Some one suggested a few days afterwards that John Geraghty, a school teacher, lately returned from the Philippines might be able to read it, as he spent three years among the Spaniards. It was given to him and he read it easily and found it to be an order from Cuba for a brick machine. The company receives many letters from foreign countries, but as a rule they are written in the English language.

WATSON'S PATER WILL CAST VOTES

Randolph County Republicans Instruct Delegations to Support Watson

WAS PRESENT AND SPOKE

Was Haired by Former Townsmen as "The Logical Leader of the Republican Forces"

Enos L. Watson, father of Congressman James E. Watson, says a dispatch from Winchester to the Indianapolis Star, will cast the vote of Randolph county Republicans for his online, when the State convention meets to name a candidate for Governor. Congressman Watson was hailed as the "logical leader of the Republican forces of Indiana" in the coming campaign by the Republicans who met Saturday. Twenty delegates were named and instructed to vote for Watson.

The convention met Saturday pursuant to the regular call, just as it has for many years past, and harmony prevailed.

State Chairman James P. Goodrich headed the committee on resolutions which indorsed Vice President Fairbanks for President; commended the administration of Theodore Roosevelt; approved the courageous direction of State affairs by Governor Hanly, and indorsed the record of Senators Hemenway and Beveridge.

The portion of the resolution indorsing Mr. Watson read:

We have watched with interest and pride the public career of the Hon.
James E. Watson, a former citizen of Randolph county, and whose name will be presented to the Republican State convention as a candidate for Governor of Indiana. As boy and man we have known and held him in high esteem. We believe that his splendid record in Congress, his many qualities of leadership and his great ability as a campaigner make him the logical leader of the Republican forces of Indiana in the coming campaign.

We earnestly commend him to the Republicans throughout the State and hereby instruct the delegates to the State convention this day elected to cast their votes, or Mr. Watson and use all honorable means to procure his nomination.

Enos L. Watson, father of the statesman from Rushville, will have the unique distinction of casting the Randolph county vote for his son.
The congressman's father is 77 years of age and was a delegate to the first Republican State convention in 1856.
He was also a delegate in 1860 and was a member of the first legislature that elected Oliver P. Morton to the United States Senate.

Congressman Watson was born in this county and lived here until after he became a voter. He was present during the convention and was called on for a speech. He thanked the convention and his former neighbors for the honor of having the delegates instructed in his behalf. He dwelt at length on the history of the Republican party in Randolph county. He expressed regret that many of the old-time famous leaders have passed away, but he said that he was pleased that the present generation is inspired by the spirit that they had manifested.

EXCELLENT TALENT IN THE LADIES MUSICAL

One of Best Programs of the Season Rendered this Afternoon

The Ladies Musicales which was held at the assembly room this afternoon, was one of the best programs of the season.

Many excellent numbers were rendered and enjoyed by all present. It is doubtful if there is better talent in the State than in the Ladies Musicales of this city. It is always spoken of in the highest terms by visiting members from other cities.

BROTHER MET VIOLENT DEATH

Rushville Man Receives Word of Untimely End of Brother in Cincinnati

FELL FROM A HIGH LADDER

Joshua Allen, Employed with the Union Gas and Electric Company, Fractured Skull

Washington Allen, a jeweler of this city, was called to Cincinnati today on account of the death of his brother, who was killed by a fall from a ladder yesterday afternoon. The Cincinnati Enquirer has the following story of the accident today:

"Indirectly the break in the big water main yesterday morning was responsible for the violent death of Joshua Allen, aged 45, a meter setter in the employ of the Union Gas and Electric company, who lived at Wade and John streets. Had not the accident occurred Allen would have remained at his home with his family.
He was, however, sent on an emergency call with a number of other employees of the company to remove meters in the houses on Garland place, which had been damaged by the water.
While the men were engaged in removing the meters Superintendent Miller was informed of trouble in another part of the city, and Allen and Edwin Sinclair of 630 Dudley street, were dispatched on this work.
It was found necessary to secure a twenty-foot ladder and the two men were sent to the West End Car Works to procure one.

"The ladder was on the second story and Allen went up to get it, while Sinclair remained outside to receive it.
Allen handed it through the window to Sinclair. As soon as Sinclair had it he shouted up to Allen: 'I've got it, leave go.'"

"Allen evidently did not hear, however, for he held onto the ladder. In dropping, the weight of the big ladder carried Allen out of the window with it. He fell to the ground, receiving fractures of the base and vertex of the skull. He was hurried to the City Hospital in Patrol 1, but died a few minutes after his arrival there. His body was removed to the morgue.

"Allen was in the employ of the gas company for over twenty-five years and has a son employed in the same capacity as he."

AGED GARDENER DYING IN FAR AWAY SANTA CRUZ

Nathan Horr received word this morning that his mother, Mrs. Nancy Horr, who lives at Santa Cruz, Cal., was not expected to live. Mrs. Horr formerly lived in this city and was well known here, having conducted a garden truck farm in the east end of the city for years.

who has been ill for quite a while,

LADY WIZARD OF THE GAS FIELDS

Is What an Expert has Styled Mrs. Dora Hilligoss, East of Here

ADVANCES A NEW THEORY

For Locating a Good Spot to Drill a Gas Well—Other "Gassing" Notes

Rush county is signally blessed in the matter of having a bountiful supply of gas. In years gone by we were —geographically—on the outer edge of the far famed gas belt of Indiana, but now we are not only in the very heart of Indiana's gas belt, but we are almost the entire heart itself.

The few wells in Rush county that "played out" are being re-shot and in many cases a higher pressure of gas is found than was ever in the wells before.

Farmers throughout the county are having their wells cleaned and re-shot and not a few put down wells with good results during the past year.

One of the wells which was re-shot and proved to be a wonder, according to gas men, was on the farm of Dora Hilligoss, east of this city. A remarkable high pressure was found and it required no little effort to check it.
An expert gas man, and a pioneer in the Indiana fields, says that he has styled Mrs. Dora Hilligoss "the Wizard of the Local Gas Fields" on account of a new and plausible theory she advances for selecting a suitable place to sink a well. She says that the most gas will be found near a spot where a warm breeze is found blowing when all around it is cool, is often experienced when driving through the country.

New State laws are very stringent as to the corking of old and abandoned wells. Some little difficulty was experienced recently in corking an abandoned well owned by Dr. D. D. Van-Osdel, which was drilled by John A.
Readle on a lot in East First street, near the mill race, many years ago.

Here's Where the Fun Comes In

There are no black cat figures in her gown, neither does she wear a gold and red band about long, black flowing loosened locks, the burning of incense is conspicuous by its absence, and ancient tapestries, oriental hangings, wands and witch and hag pictures are nowhere to be seen, in fact there is none of those creepy, mystery, chill producing accessories in the room or make-up of Madame LaDew, who is in Rushville for a short stay engaged in telling fortunes. She declares it is a gift with her, and she tells the past, present and future with a pack of ordinary cards. During the past week, quite a number of people—mostly women—have called on the Madame to have some affair in love or business straightened out (in all probability, the former brought more clients to her) and not a few of them speak in the highest terms of her work.

Madame LaDew—of course that isn't her name—was born and raised within a few miles of Rushville, but for years has been carrying on the work of fortune telling in several States. She is an elderly lady and has, in the parlance of baseball and drawing room gibberish a "good delivery."

A representative of this paper visited her at her rooms and had the past unbared and the veil hanging between the now and the future drawn. Like all other "well regulated" fortune tellers, she cleverly hit off on a few generalities and told some optimistic stories of the future. In the main she tells a good fortune by the "leads" she secures by certain questions, and many a love sick maiden and heart burning swain will receive consolation and amusement—it's all in the point of view they take—in their interview with the madame.

The General Demand

of the Well-Informed of the World has always been for a simple, pleasant and efficient liquid laxative remedy of known value; a laxative which physicians could sanction for family use because its component parts are known to them to be wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, acceptable to the system and gentle, yet prompt, in action.

In supplying that demand with its excellent combination of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, the California Fig Syrup Co. proceeds along ethical lines and relies on the merits of the laxative for its remarkable success.

That is one of many reasons why Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is given the preference by the Well-Informed. To get its beneficial effects always buy the genuine—manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only, and for sale by all leading druggists. Price fifty cents per bottle.

EVIDENCE SOUGHT

Wayne County Authorities Revive the Lucy Murder Case In Earnest.

PROBE MURDER STORIES

Prosecutor Declares That Corroboration of Mrs. Du Boise's Story Will Be Eventually Obtained.

Circumstances on Which to Base a Grand Jury Investigation Are Hinted at.

Richmond, Ind., Jan. 27.—Prosecuting Attorney Wilfred Jessup and Sheriff Linus Meredith made a trip to Milton and Connersville in an effort to secure evidence to corroborate the statement made by Mrs. Ralph Du Boise in reference to the murder of Joseph Lucy, the aged recluse who met his death by violent means at his home south of Milton more than two years ago.

Mrs. Du Boise furnished the information on which her nephew, Earl Du Boise, William Philpott and Peter Sturgess, the latter of Hamilton, Ohio, were arrested. It is necessary to have other testimony to the same effect in order to prevail on Judge Henry C. Fox to call a session of the grand jury to investigate the case.

The officials are confident of proving the guilt of the accused men, and it is stated that they have evidence that after the murder of Lucy, Philpott, Du Boise and Sturgess went to Hamilton, where they remained for several days, spending considerable money.

Sturgess is apparently in the depth of despair over his arrest. The man is ghastly pale and extremely nervous. When an officer arrived from Richmond Sturgess willingly consented to come to this city without extradition proceedings. The accused man said he was employed at Connersville at the time of the murder. His family was then residing in Milton. He says that on the night of the murder he and two friends sat up at Connersville most of the night for amusement.

Sturgess has a wife and two children, the oldest being nine. The parting at Hamilton was one of the most pathetic scenes the Richmond officer had ever witnessed. It is said that when Sturgess was arrested he turned the color of marble and the Hamilton authorities thought he was going to die.

ENCOURAGING TRUANTS

Jury Frees Man Charged With Allowing Son to Remain From School.

Elkhart, Ind., Jan. 27.—Fear exists here that an epidemic of truancy may afflict the public schools as the result of the acquittal of a parent on the charge of permitting his son to be truant. Several families that have objected to compulsory education have awaited the result of the trial and will take advantage of the verdict to resist officers and school authorities.

Upon complaint of Truancy Officer Heffner, Beft Fuller was charged with allowing his eleven-year-old son to remain out of school. Fuller appeared before Justice Brumbaugh and demanded a jury trial. The twelve men brought in a verdict of acquittal. It was shown that Fuller is a poor man, working for small wages.

Still Cling to Murder Theory.
Frankfort, Ind., Jan. 27.—Coroner George W. Brown has rendered a verdict that Mrs. Ella Dukes came to her death by suicide. The two facts that caused the coroner to render the verdict were that she had threatened suicide and there can be found no motive for the murder. He did not attempt to explain away the many things that had been done in connection with the death that appeared almost impossible for Mrs. Dukes to have done. The finding of the verdict by the coroner will in no way lessen the effort of the police to fathom the mystery. Every clue, however small or insignificant, is being worked out by Chief of Police Bird and his men. In spite of the coroner's verdict a large per cent of the people cling to the theory and belief of murder.

The Graves Brothers Acquitted.
Indianapolis, Jan. 27.—Fred and Dave Graves, indicted for murder following a fight in the poolroom of the City Club saloon, in which Herbert Murphy was struck a deadly blow with a billiard cue, have been freed. Murphy died from the injury and the Graves brothers fled. They were arrested after being at liberty over a year. The indictment against David Graves was nolleed after all of the evidence had been introduced, leaving only Fred as the defendant, and the jury returned a verdict of acquittal.

Young Woman Burned to Death.
Bloomington, Ind., Jan. 27.—A woman burns she received by the explosion of a gasoline stove, Alice, the nineteen-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. D. R. Wylie, north of this city, died in agony at the home of her sister, Mrs. Elmer Ferguson of Jasonville. While lighting a gasoline stove there was a sudden explosion, the flames igniting the dress of Miss Wylie. In attempting to quench the blaze Mrs. Ferguson was badly burned, and her recovery is a matter of doubt.

CONSPIRACY CHARGED

Pennsylvania's Capitol Scandal Gets Its First Airing in Court.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 27.—The first of the thirty-seven criminal suits against former state officers, contractors and others connected with the building and furnishing of the new capitol of Pennsylvania was brought to trial in the Dauphin county court today before Judge Kunkel. The defendants in the suits listed for trial first are Architect Joseph M. Huston and Contractor John Sanderson, Philadelphia; former Auditor General William P. Snyder, Spring City; former State Treasurer William L. Mathues of Media and James M. Shumaker of Johnstown, former superintendent of public grounds and buildings.

The defendants are charged with conspiracy to cheat and defraud the state out of $135,000 by falsifying the weight and measurements of certain furnishings supplied by Sanderson under his per-foot and per-pound contract with the board of grounds and buildings. The prosecution has selected five cases against these defendants to be tried first.

The suits against Congressman H. Burd Cassel of the Pennsylvania Construction company, who supplied the metallic furniture for the capitol, who is under indictment on charges of conspiracy and false pretense, and the remaining eight defendants in these prosecutions will be tried later. The total cost of the capitol was $13,000,000, of which $4,000,000 was expended by the building commission for construction and $9,000,000 by the board of grounds and buildings for furnishings. Sanderson's contract amounted to $5,487,899, and his profit in some instances is alleged to have been as much as 4000 per cent. Huston designed the capitol and the furnishings and received in commissions more than $400,000. Shumaker is accused of having failed to audit the bills of Sanderson and other contractors and with having accepted Huston's certifications that the work was according to specifications. Mathues is alleged to have paid the Mills and Snyder said to have passed the bills without them having been audited in either case.

Many of the furnishings supplied by Sanderson and other contractors will be produced by the commonwealth before the jury and experts will be called to show that they are not up to the specifications and that the prices were excessive and not according to contract. Experts in metallic and wooden furniture, marble and other furnishings will be called as witnesses by each side.

Reached Port at Last.

St. John N. B., Jan. 27.—After nearly fifty days on the ocean, the 300 immigrants who left Antwerp on Dec. 7 for St. John by the Canadian Pacific steamer Mount Royal to make homes in western Canada and the United States, arrived here Sunday on the Canadian Pacific steamer Montrose. The Mount Royal was buffeted about the Atlantic for a month, given up for lost and finally reached Queenstown. There the passengers were transferred to the steamer Montrose and on Jan. 11 left again for St. John.

An Unusual Church Service.

Boston, Jan. 27.—True to the promise he made one week ago when Morrison L. Swift and his "army of the unemployed" entered Trinity church and demanded that the rector preach on the duty of the state to the unemployed and take up a collection for the latter, Rev. Alexander Mann made welcome yesterday many of the unemployed and a collection estimated at $1,000 was taken up for their benefit at the morning service.

NINE YEARS AFTER

No Brighter Page In History Than That We Have Written In Philippines.

THUS SAYS THE PRESIDENT

In Commending Secretary Taft's Report the President Eulogizes Policies of William McKinley.

Ruin Would Have Followed the Adoption of Any Other Policy, Is His Conclusion.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Nine years after the battle of Manila bay, Secretary Taft records the results of the American occupation of the archipelago and forecasts the future of the Filipinos, in an exhaustive report transmitted to congress by the president with a letter written by the chief executive, commending in the highest terms the secretary's conclusions. The president declares that ruin would have followed the adoption of any other policy toward the Philippines than that outlined by William McKinley and carried forward through these nine years, and asserts triumphantly that there is no brighter page in history than that dealing with the relation between the strong and the weak in those islands. He adds that the Filipinos "have yet a long way to travel before they will be fit for complete self-government."

Secretary Taft's report records his observations on his recent visit to the islands to the extent of nearly eighty printed pages. Generally speaking, the secretary is optimistic in a high degree in treating on this subject, even though he cannot fix a time for declaring the independence of the islands. In answer to the critics who have made "the most astounding and unfair statements in respect to the cost to the United States of the Philippines," he figures out a total annual expenditure of $5,000,000, and he vigorously denies the failure of the Philippine policy. He says that great changes have occurred in the islands. The people are now anxious to have the American soldiers retained. There is a high standard of administration of justice. Nothing is more popular than the constabulary. There are no questions between the government and the Roman Catholic church, unless the Aglipayan schism can be said to be involved. Peace prevails in a greater degree than ever before in the history of the islands. The magnificent Benguet road is now justified by the results obtained.

The secretary is willing to limit the amount of sugar and tobacco that can be exported to the United States. He predicted a development of business within twenty-five years that will make the Filipinos themselves stand high in the world's industrial populations. His recommendations are that Philippine products be admitted into the United States free of duty under reasonable limitations; that present restrictions be removed on the acquisition of mining properties; that the Philippine government be authorized to conduct an agricultural bank, and finally that the islands be exempted from the operations of the coastwise shipping laws.

Fewer Grand-stand Plays.

New York, Jan. 27.—The Thaw trial today entered on its fourth and probably its last week. The dispatch with which the present trial has moved compared with the one a year ago, which stretched over a period of twelve weeks, is little short of remarkable. The defense has another day of evidence to offer, and the state should have its rebuttal evidence before the jury by Thursday night.

The I. C. Will Test It.

Marion, Ill., Jan. 27.—The Illinois Central Railroad company has entered suit against the town of Herrin, this county for $700,000 on the grounds of interfering with traffic. have been made for over fifty years, steadily gaining in character of designs, finish and general popularity, but best of all, the good old "Rogers" quality has been maintained. It would be hard indeed to improve upon the wearing qualities first exhibited by this brand, and which have made "1847 Rogers Bros." the most famous of all silverware. Do not experiment by trying something that has not stood the test of time. Buy "1847" goods, which have a well-known and well-earned reputation, and you run no risk. There are other "Rogers." Keep The Kidneys Well

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Rushville People Know How to Save it

Many Rushville people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all the diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is the statement of a Rushville citizen who has reclaimed good health by the use of this remedy.

Mrs. Ernest Carpenter, 916 N. Sexton Street, Rushville Ind. says:

"I gave Doan's Kidney Pills to my little boy. His kidneys were weak and he could not refrain from bed wetting. This trouble clung to him for some time and I was afraid it would not be removed, as our doctor had not succeeded in checking it. He seemed delicate and craved nothing but sweets. He had a bad complexion and had every symptom of unhealthy kidneys. I learned that Doan's Kidney Pills had cured many children of bed wetting and I procured them at F. B. Johnson & Company's drug store. They soon checked the trouble. He has a better appetite now, the color in his face is returning and there is a general improvement in his condition."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States

PEOPLES' COLUMN

Under this head we will print short discussions of public questions and timely topics, but the Republica will not be responsible for the opinions expressed—they are the opinions of the writers and not of the Republica. Nothing of a libelous nature or personal reflection will be printed. The writer must confine themselves to the question discussed. While the articles may be signed by a nom de plume, the name of the writer must be signed for identification.

A Letter from Capt. Wilker to Company G.

Hello! old Company G! What are you all doing these long winter nights? I suppose you all take the Republican. If you don't take it now, had better get after it, for fear you will miss some good things in its pages, a letter from me, for instance, or a windy article on "Our Jim."

Wake up, boys! This is campaign year and many things are liable to happen. You may all get a raise of pension. You know last year congressmen, clerks and mail carriers all received increases and now "Our Jim" will surely not fail to give the old soldier an increase this year. "For Uncle Sam is rich enough to give us all a farm."

Do you ever stop to think of where you were at, and how you were earning thirteen dollars per month about forty-four years ago? On or about January 23d, 1864, we left Fort Pillow, and floated down to Vicksburg, where we started on our overland trip to Meriden, Miss. Of course, you recollect the 4th of February when they poured it into us near Jackson and killed Bertrand who carried the flag; shattered the knee of Goulding and the ankle of Hargit. I think long Bill Smith, of Milroy, picked up the flag when Bertrand of Company A. was killed. Poor Strickland also ended his service then and there.

Who were the men that helped me carry Goulding to Jackson on that stretcher. I remember Sam Sheppard, Mel Brooks, and I, think, Alf. Pearcey. Say, boys, those stretcher handles were desperately heavy the last mile. I think there were six of us and we carried him two miles. He died in a few days.

How many of you saw the dead women and live baby on the floor of the cabin near Meriden as we entered the town after the last skirmish with the enemy? Think of what war meant to some people, and what became of the baby!

Of course, you remember February 27th in the return trip, when we re-enlisted at Canton, Miss.

If you boys want any more of this racket you must defend me from the editor, for I carry no insurance, and want a copy of each letter.

You know Company G was in the last battle of the war, and some of you were not there. And I might tell you something new about it. What has become of Smith Carney. He is not getting old, I hope. Brace up Smith, and pattern after such boys as Wilkes and Col. Wolfe. They are only in their teens. T. WILKES. Jan. 32, 1908.

Reform in School Luncheons.

Parents have come to see the danger of allowing school children to make their luncheons upon unwholesome food containing little if any nourishment. There are many palatable lunches that can be easily made at little cost and that the children will like as well as unwholesome sweets.

Current cakes from this recipe make a very nourishing luncheon: One-half pound butter, twelve ounces sugar, fourteen ounces flour, six ounces currants, one-quarter ounce baking powder, four eggs, one gill milk, essence of lemon. Sift the baking powder with the flour on to a sheet of paper on the board; add the fruit and peel; cream up butter and sugar, adding eggs in the usual way; stir in the flour, fruit, etc., and work—i. e., beat up—to cake batter consistency with the milk. Place in round papered tins and bake in a moderate oven.

Children also like these oatmeal biscuits: One-half pound flour, one-quarter pound coarse oatmeal, two ounces brown sugar, three ounces currants, one gill milk. Mix the flour, oatmeal and sugar, warm the butter in the milk, add the currants, and then work the whole together into a paste; roll out very thin, stamp out into round or other shape and bake in a moderate oven for about twenty minutes.

Sideswiped the Limited.

Xenia, O., Jan. 27.—The St. Louis-New York Limited on the Pennsylvania lines was sideswiped by a road engine in the railroad yards here last night. Miss Julia Bishop, a millinery buyer of St. Louis, jumped from her berth when the crash came and was hurled against a seat, there of her ribs being broken. No other person was injured.

Illinois Town's Serious Loss.

Madison, Ill., Jan. 27.—A mysterious explosion in a hard coal stove started a fire which destroyed the greater part of two city blocks in the heart of the business section of Madison. The loss will exceed $100,000. An eighteen-inch fire wall saved the First National bank. Waschner's department store, where the fire started, is entirely destroyed.

Slain by Highwaymen.

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 27.—A. W. Thorneley, sixty years of age, Mexican vice consul in this city, who was shot by highwayman Monday, is dead. Mr. Thorneley came here from LaCrosse, Wis., several years ago. A reward of $1,000 is offered by the state and county for the apprehension of the murderer.

The Week in Congress.

Washington, Jan. 27.—In congress this week pending bills will take up the time of both houses. The Aldrich financial bill will be reported to the senate during the week, but debate on it will not open for some time after it has been placed on the calendar.

Tribesmen Again Repulsed.

Tangier, Jan. 27.—Advices received here state that the Zenatia and Ouled Ali tribes attacked the French troops on Jan. 23, but were repulsed with severe loss after four hours' fighting.

T. Tchigorin, the noted chess master, is dead at St. Petersburg.

Haytien insurgents are said to have shot a man. This is a rank violation of the Caribbean sea code of revolution.

While the world is unable to define electricity, it has learned much about what may be done with it, and it has become one of the greatest boons to mankind. The making of electrical appliances has become one of the greatest industries. Last year the people of the United States spent $315,000,000 for electrical manufactures, and many men still in active business remember the time when some simple instruments in college laboratories, without practical utility, covered the whole field of electrical knowledge.

It was certainly a happy day for James E. Watson last Saturday when he addressed his former neighbors and friends of Randolph county at a convention, wherein his father, Enos L. Watson was chosen to lead the Randolph county delegation, which was instructed to vote for his son. And it must have been a happy and proud day for the elder Mr. Watson, who is 77 years old to have the honor and privilege in the evening of his life to head a delegation and assist in the nomination of an illustrious and distinguished son.

Japan, which is burdened with a heavy war tax and torn by internal dissensions, seems to be a scare-crow to a great many people. That little country cannot afford to go to war with any one, much less with the United States. Sensible people will pay no attention to the sensational predictions of trouble with Japan, which are appearing in the columns of certain newspapers. The president has given to the public, through the newspapers, the assurance that all is going well with the negotiations, between the United States and Japan and the people can well afford to take the word of the President as against that of the yellow journals.

The coming shortage in the lumber supply is giving renewed emphasis by recent estimates from the Bureau of Forestry. According to these statements, the annual consumption of wood is probably three times the yearly growth. Detailed reports of standing lumber range from 1400 to two thousand billion feet. On the basis of the larger estimate and reckoning the annual growth at forty billion feet, it appears that there is not more than a thirty-three years' supply of timber in this country at present rate of use. About one-fifth of the total forest area is under State or National control, and will, it is supposed, be rightly managed, so that it will produce a steady supply, but the remainder, if hauled under prevailing methods, is bound to show a steadily diminishing output. Some of the States formerly producing a larger portion of the supply are already dropping out of the ranks. Michigan has declined from 23 per cent of the total in 1880 to less than 6 per cent last year. An increased cut in some of the Southern States and on the Pacific coast is now making up for the deficiency in the older States, but at the rate the newer regions are being cut off they will soon reach their limit of production. Apparently there is no escape from a diminished output of lumber, and higher prices, although the time may be postponed by careful handling of the remaining forest areas.

By long odds the gayest and most inspiring sight in New York on New Year's day was the spectacle of Mark Twain, arrayed in that famous white flannel suit, walking about the streets of the metropolis. "My clothes match the weather," he said when people inquired about the raiment.

Porter's Way.
Sixteen monster battleships in conscious glory steaming Down from Rio to the south and north To Frisco bay—A sight to stir the patriot, to set the watcher dreaming
Of Porter in the Essex when he sailed the selfsame way.

Porter had a frigate to sweep the broad Pacific; Half the seas were hostile, foes in every port; Porter and his men didn't think the task terrific.
Didn't think the job was work, just a bit of sailors' sport.

So Porter and the Essex did a job as thorough
As any ocean rover from Magellan to the line.
Of all the fleets of whalers, not a keel dare plow a furrow; Of privateers and cruisers they didn't leave a sign.

Porter and the Essex ruled the broad Pacific spaces, With his crew of Yankee sailors and his flag of "sailors' rights." From Magellan to the line, Valparaiso to Marquesas, Till he lost the storm smashed Essex in the bloodiest of fights.

To the same serene Pacific the battleships are going, Into friendly waters, peaceful in their might,
But ready, quick and ready, should any foe be showing.
Like Porter in the Essex, to clean everything in sight.

INDIANA POLITICS

BY ROBERT G. TUCKER

Indianapolis, January 27.—Amos W. Butler, secretary of the board of state charities, who has returned to his desk after a two weeks' illness, has forwarded to members of the Oklahoma legislature, upon request, copies of Indiana's law for dependent and neglected children, the child desertion law, the juvenile court law, the board of children's guardians law, the law governing the boys' and girls' reform schools and the Jeffersonville reformatory and state prison; the indeterminate sentence law, the parole law, the adult probation law and the laws establishing the insane hospitals, the school for feeble-minded youth, the epileptic village and the board of state charities. Alexander Johnson, secretary of the National Conference of Charities and Correction, who has returned from Frankfort, Ky., where he had been attending the Kentucky conference of charities, said that Kentucky is seeking to establish a board of state charities modeled after the Indiana board; a school for feeble-minded youth like that in this state, and to enact an indeterminate sentence law and parole law. Governor Willson is interested in these new laws, but a deadlock in the legislature at present is blocking things. W. H. Whittaker, superintendent, and Dr. W. C. Sharp, physician at the Indiana reformatory, were on the program at the Kentucky conference.

Randolph county's twenty delegates to the Republican state convention were instructed and pledged to vote for James E. Watson for governor at the state convention. The unique distinction of a father casting the vote of his county for his son will be witnessed when Enos L. Watson casts the Randolph county vote. He was selected as a delegate and elected chairman of the delegation. He is seventy-seven years old and was a delegate to the first Republican convention in Indiana in 1856. He was a delegate also in 1860, and a member of the first legislature that elected Oliver P. Morton the great "war governor," to the United States senate. Congressman Watson was born in Randolph county and lived there until after he became a voter.

The state board of health will send to the physicians of the state notices to the effect that they must be more explicit in reporting causes of death. The board has been troubled much with indefinite death returns, which have led to controversies, especially over applications for widows' pensions or the payment of insurance. "Heart failure," the instructions say, should never be accepted as the sole cause of death. "What disease caused the 'heart failure'?" says the circular to the physicians. "The heart always fails before death from any cause. Be particularly careful that deaths from diphtheria, tuberculosis, etc., are so reported. If organic heart disease is meant, it should be so stated." Regarding the term "inanition," as returned by some physicians as a cause of death, the bulletin says: "This is a particularly pernicious term, and is responsible for a multitude of worthless certificates. It sounds as if it meant something definite, but in the majority of cases it does not. What disease caused the inanition? Was it tuberculosis or cholera infantum? If unable to take food, state cause."

Congressman Charles B. Landis of Delphi probably will have no opposition when the delegates meet March 5 at Frankfort to nominate a candidate to succeed him. His friends have been very active since the re-election of George Dinwiddie of Frankfort as chairman, and apparently have succeeded in beating the anti-Landis movement in every county except Howard, where Judge B. F. Harness of Kokomo is still a candidate. The delegates have been selected in Hamilton county and twenty-one of the twenty-two are favorable to Landis, although Dr. A. R. Tucker of Noblesville, says that he is in the race. The election of the Landis delegates in Hamilton county will make it impossible for anyone to form a successful combination against him.

Financial Troubles Due to Wastefulness.

By WILLIAM SHERER, Manager of the New York Clearing House.

CAUSES of the present financial difficulties are many and varied. WASTEFULNESS has been one. The war between Russia and Japan disturbed capital throughout the world. The great WASTE OF MATERIAL CAUSED BY A WAR takes years to restore. That war was preventable, but the earthquake and the subsequent fire at San Francisco, which ruined the accumulation of years, were important factors in the waste of capital. As we come nearer to the present time, looking back a very few years, we see how EXTRAVAGANT AND WASTEFUL this prosperous people have been.

THE MISUSE OF TRUST HAS LED THE SUSPICION BY MANY, AND THE CONSEQUENT LOSS OF CONFIDENCE HAS CAUSED THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE TO WITHDRAW THEIR MONEY FROM THE BANKS, HOARDING IT AND THUS KEEPING IT FROM THE CHANNELS OF TRADE, LIMITING NECESSARY PRODUCTION, THEREBY CAUSING A STOPPING OF WORK AND THE SUFFERING WHICH NATURALLY ENSUES THEREFROM.

CURRENT COMMENT

Literary Tyranny?

A "secret tyranny at work in America" is alleged by Gertrude Atherton to be the cause in great part of "lack of originality, of vitality, of elemental fire," in the large annual output of American writers of fiction. Mrs. Atherton asserts that the European writer has greater liberty to paint with a free hand, to essay "individual literary creation." To quote further from a recent interview with this gifted author:

But in America originality is not wanted by the powers that govern our literary output. A certain arbitrary school of writers has erected here a narrow conventional standard, a hard and fast rule, to which the would-be author, with a message all his own, is bound as to some prismatic bed whose painful limitations are repressive of genius and bring all who come within its influence to one dead level of sameness, of mediocrity, of hopelessly middle class effort. We must write of the small things of life, we must paint in miniature, we must view America as a stage upon which the great dramas of humanity are not acted, if we wish to be numbered among the elect in this pitiful school that at present seems to have the literary conscience of this country in its keeping. And until this standard is withdrawn, until the bars that guard the way to the limitless pastures of imaginative literature are taken down, the books that are written in America will surely not mirror this country's manifold, seething life, will not be typical of our complex national existence.

Mrs. Atherton herself struggled long for a recognition of her work, which bears the stamp of originality, and her latest novel soon took rank among the "best sellers." She says that the tyranny referred to is exercised by a school of writers, "the magazine school," which has taken to itself the office of literary censor, and that it emanates unconsciously from William Dean Howells. The standard set by Howells and followed by a large body of writers, a "sort of literary aristocracy," is described as "hopelessly narrow, finicky, commonplace in its conception and treatment of things." Mrs. Atherton continues:

Undoubtedly this magazine school has taught some people how to write who possibly never would have developed into anything otherwise, but that is rather a negative virtue after all. I confess that at the beginning of my literary career I could make nothing of this school. I couldn't write the way it demanded, and so I went to England and obtained the recognition I needed there.

It is a curious thing, but England with its venerable literary antecedents has no hard and fast standard to impose upon something new among both British publishers and public that is quite refreshing to the writer who has wearied of struggling with the Howells cult. Here the critics and the publishers are positively frightened at anything new.

Mrs. Atherton admits that it is unfair to lay all blame for the "suppression of originality" in American novels to any school of writers, for "it is the public in the last resort that is to blame." She also predicts that the time will undoubtedly come when there will be at least two standards of literary excellence recognized in this country and that writers whom originality stirs with an unconquerable force and with the gift to create life in fiction as it is found in the real world will give the American public a glimpse of something new, something to remain as an "inspiration to true effort in American literature."

In the course of the interview Mrs. Atherton drops a hint as to her own standard for fiction, saying:

All subjects are good for the novelist, but the latter must be able to tell something worth while, something original, of the phase of life which he makes his theme, else the picture he would convey will be false alike to art and morals. And then, above all, there is the canon of literary taste which, in the case of a veritable master, must decide infallibly where the novelist is to stop in the treatment of a disagreeable theme from real life.

The point is also made that the great novelist should be able at times to present an "impersonality of style," an aloofness in sympathy with the traits of the characters he is depicting. At the same time great writers must know all about the people and the conditions they would describe.

METHODS OF CANNIBALS.

Missionary Tells How Old Persons Were Softened For the Feasts.

The Rev. Father F. X. Lichtenberger, for eight years a missionary among the savages of Nigeria, central Africa, and who has been visiting friends in St. Louis, relates stories of cannibalism so gruesome that they would be almost unbelievable but for photographic evidence, says a St. Louis special dispatch to the New York World. He says that four members of the party that accompanied him from Paris were victims of cannibalism.

Father Lichtenberger says he witnessed these human feasts. Men and women were fattened before being killed and eaten. Husky women captured from other tribes were marched from hut to hut, and various portions of their bodies were marked off with colored clay, the "choice bits" to be sent to the purchasers after the victim had been slaughtered.

Old men and women are softened for the feast just as we might bleach celery. When the supply of girls runs out, they take the old men and place them in water up to their necks and keep them there for two or three days, all the time feeding them liberally so as to at once fatten and soften them.

PEOPLE HERE WANT POWERS PARDONED

Petition to be Presented to Kentucky Governor was Freely Signed in Rushville

A petition was circulated among the prominent citizens of Rushville today, praying for the pardon of Caleb Powers, who is held for alleged complicity in the Governor Goshel murder. Powers has been imprisoned for over eight years, and at his last trial eleven men stood for acquittal and but one held out for conviction.

Following is Mr. Hinchman's letter: My idea of why you use O. P. C. H., or one price clothing house, is this: To impress upon the minds of the people, and especially the tightwad that you have but one price upon your clothing. That a poor man's dollar will buy as much as the rich.

The Siward house was old only in the comparative Manhattan meaning of the word, for in New York nothing is really very old except the faces of the young men.

Decades ago it had been considered a big house, and it was still so spoken of—a solid, dingy, red brick structure, cubical in proportions, surmounted by heavy chimneys, the depth of its sunken windows hinting of the thickness of wall and foundation. Window curtains of obsolete pattern, all alike and all drawn, masked the blank panes. Three massive wistaria vines, the gnarled stems as thick as tree trunks, crawled upward to the roof, dividing the facade equally and furnishing some relief to its flatness, otherwise unbroken except by the deep reveals of window and door. Two huge and unsymmetrical catalpa trees stood sentinel before it, dividing curb from asphalt, and from the centers of the shriveled brown grass plots flanking the stoop under the basement windows two aged Rose of Sharon trees bristled naked to the height of the white marble capitals of the flanking pillars supporting the stained portico.

"Nice old family mausoleum," commented Fleetwood, descending from the hansom, followed by Plank.

The door was opened by a very old man wearing the black swallowtail clothes and choker of an old time butler, spotless, quite immaculate, but cut after a fashion no young man remembers.

"Good evening, Gumble," said Fleetwood, entering, followed on tiptoe by Plank.

"Good evening, sir." A pause and in the unsteady voice of age: "Mr. Fleetwood, sir. Mr.— A bow and the dim eyes peering up at Plank, who stood fumbling for his cardcase.

Fleetwood dropped both cards on the salver unsteadily extended. The butler ushered them into a dim room on the right.

"How is Mr. Siward?" asked Fleetwood, pausing on the threshold and dropping his voice.

The old man hesitated, looking down; then still looking away from Fleetwood: "Bravely, sir; bravely, Mr. Fleetwood."

"The Siwards were always that," said the young man gently.

"Yes, sir. Thank you, Mr. Stephen—Mr. Siward," he corrected quaintly, "is indisposed, sir. It was a— a great shock to us all, sir." He bowed and turned away, holding his salver stiffly, and they heard him muttering under his breath: "Bravely, sir; bravely. A— a great shock, sir. Thank you."

The butler returned presently, saying that Mr. Siward was at home and would receive them in the library above, as he was not yet able to pass up and down stairs.

Siward was sitting in an armchair by the window, one leg extended, his left foot, stiffly cased in bandages, resting on a footstool.

"Why, Stephen," exclaimed Fleetwood, hastening forward, "I didn't know you were laid up like this!"

Siward offered his hand inquiringly; then his eyes turned toward Plank, who stood behind Fleetwood, and, slowly disengaging his hand from Fleetwood's sympathetic grip, he offered it to Plank.

"It is very kind of you," he said. "Gumble, Mr. Fleetwood prefers for some inscrutable reason, Mr. Plank?" His smile was a question.

"If you don't mind," said Plank, "I should like to have some tea—that is, if—"

"Tea, Gumble, for two. We'll tattle in company, Mr. Plank," he added. "And the cigars are at your elbow, Billy," with another smile at Fleetwood.

"Now," said the latter after he had lighted his cigar, "what is the matter, Stephen?"

Siward glanced at his stiffly extended foot. "Nothing much." He reddened faintly. "I slipped. It's only a twisted ankle."

For a moment or two the answer satisfied Fleetwood; then a sudden, curious flash of suspicion came into his eyes. He glanced sharply at Siward, who lowered his eyes, while the red tint in his hollow cheeks deepened. Neither spoke for awhile. Plank slipped ped the tea which Wands, the second man, brought. Siward brooded over his cup, head bent. Fleetwood made more noise than necessary with his ice.

"Why did you drop the Saddle club, Stephen?" asked Fleetwood.

"I'm not riding. I have no use for it," replied Siward.

"You've cut out the Proscenium club, too, and the Owl's Head and the Trophy. It's a shame, Stephen."

"I'm tired of clubs."

"Don't talk that way." "Very well, I won't," said Siward, smiling. "Tell me what is happening out there." He made a gesture toward the window. "All the gossip the newspapers miss. I've talked Dr. Grisby to death; I've talked Gumble to death; I've read myself stupid. What's going on, Billy?"

So Fleetwood sketched for him a gay cartoon of events, caricaturing various episodes in the social kaleidoscope which might interest him. Politics was touched upon, and they spoke of the possibility of Ferrall going to the assembly, the sport of boss baiting having become fashionable among amateurs and providing a new amusement for the idle rich. So city, state and national issues were run through lightly, business conditions noticed, and the stock market speculated upon, and presently conversation died out, with a yawn from Fleetwood as he looked into his empty glass at the last bit of ice.

"Don't do that, Billy," smiled Siward.

"Don't do that, Billy," smiled Siward. "You haven't discoursed upon art, literature and science yet, and you can't go until you've adjusted the affairs of the nation for the next twenty-four hours."

"How soon will you be out?" inquired Fleetwood.

"Out? I don't know. I shall try to drive to the office tomorrow."

"Why the devil did you resign from all your clubs? How can I see you if I don't come here?" began Fleetwood impatiently. "I know, of course, that you're not going anywhere, but a man always goes to his club. You don't look well, Stephen. You are too much alone."

Siward did not answer. His face and body had certainly grown thinner since Fleetwood had last seen him. Plank, too, had been shocked at the change in him—the dark, hard lines under the eyes; the pallor, the curious immobility of the man, save for his fingers, which were always restless, now moving in search of some small object to worry and turn over and over, now nervously settling into a grasp on the arm of his chair.

"How is Amalgamated Electric?" asked Fleetwood abruptly.

"I think it's all right. Want to buy some?" replied Siward, smiling.

Plank stirred in his chair ponderously. "Somebody is kicking it to pieces," he said.

"Somebody is trying to," smiled Siward.

"Harrington," nodded Fleetwood. Siward nodded back. Plank was silent. "Of course," continued Fleetwood tentatively, "you people need not worry with Howard Quarrier back of you."

Nobody said anything for awhile. Presently Siward's restless hands, moving in search of something, encountered a pencil lying on the table beside him, and he picked it up and began drawing initials and scrolls on the margin of a newspaper, and all the scrolls framed initials, and all the initials were the same, twining and twisting into endless variations of the letters S. L.

"Yes, I must go to the office tomorrow," he repeated absently. "I am better—in fact, I am quite well except for this sprain." He looked down at his bandaged foot; then his pencil moved listlessly again, continuing the endless variations on the two letters. It was plain that he was tired.

Fleetwood rose and made his adieu almost affectionately. Plank moved forward on tiptoe, bulky and noiseless, and Siward held out his hand, saying something amiably formal.

"Would you like to have me come again?" asked Plank, red with embarrassment, yet so naively that at first Siward found no words to answer him; then:

"Would you care to come, Mr. Plank?"

"Yes." Siward looked at him curiously, almost cautiously. His first impressions of the man had been summed up in one contemptuous word. Besides, barring that, what was there in common between himself and such a type as Plank? He had not even troubled himself to avoid him at Shotover. He had merely been aware of him when Plank spoke to him.

Perhaps Plank had changed, perhaps Siward had, for he found nothing offensive in the bulky young man now—nothing particularly attractive, either, except for a certain simplicity, a certain direct candor in the heavy blue eyes which met his squarely.

"Come in for a cigar when you have a few moments idle," said Siward slowly.

"It will give me great pleasure," said Plank, bowing.

And that was all. He followed Fleetwood down the stairs. Wands held their coats and bowed them out into the falling shadows of the winter twilight.

Siward, sitting beside his window, watched them enter their hansom and drive away up the avenue. A dull flush had settled over his cheeks, the aroma of spirits hung in the air, and he looked across the room at the decanter. Presently he drank some of his tea, but it was lukewarm, and he pushed the cup from him.

"Gumble, are you there?" he asked carelessly.

The butler entered from the hallway. "Yes, sir."

"You may leave that decanter."

But the old servant may have misunderstood, for he only bowed and ambled off downstairs with the decanter, either heedless or deaf to his master's sharp order to return.

CAN STOP MINE ACCIDENTS.

Ventilation of English Coal Workings So Perfected That Gas Explosions Are Now Almost Unknown.

English coal mine owners have proved that it is possible to do away with the most dreaded cause of mine accidents—gas explosions. As the result of efforts of the past five or six years to improve ventilation, explosions in English mines are now so rare as to make them the smallest factor in the list of fatality causes.

This result has been brought about in spite of the fact that a larger amount of gas is generated in English mines than here. The showing is especially important in view of the frightful accidents of recent date in Pennsylvania mines and the government's report of a greatly increased mine death list.

That mine operators in the United States have not kept up with improvements in ventilation was recently asserted by the Engineering and Mining Journal. Fans known to be faulty, this paper says, are installed in practically the same way that has prevailed for twenty years.

As an example of the advances made abroad in the use of small but very powerful fans the Journal refers to the Pelton colliery, Durham county, England, where one seventy-five inch fan, known as the Sirocco, was installed to do the same work performed by two fans of the type still used in the United States. One of the old fans is thirty-six feet and the other thirty feet in diameter, but the newer type of fan handles about 22,000 cubic feet of air per minute more than the two old fans together.

In appearance the fans that have practically done away with explosions in English mines resemble a drum with a large number of narrow blades arranged slantingly around the inner circumference. There are sixty-four blades, each about one-sixteenth of the diameter of the drum. It looks like anything but a fan, but for one with a diameter of about thirty inches the output runs as high as 18,700 cubic feet of air per minute.

Owing to their small size, coupled with great efficiency, these centrifugal fans can be placed underground in workings that are not adequately ventilated. They have been installed at the Ellsworth and Vintondale collieries in Pennsylvania and in the copper mines of the United Verde company of Arizona, proving that adequate ventilation can be had if mine owners will abandon systems that, as the engineering authority already quoted says, "are built simply because fans of similar pattern have been used before."

This indicates one way in which a large proportion of the 7,000 deaths and injuries caused annually in coal mine accidents can be prevented.

TAXPAYERS TO BE HEARD ON TEACHERS' DEMANDS.

Equal Pay Movement Involves Question of How to Meet Enormously Increased Outlay For Public Schools.

To overcome Governor Hughes' objections to the bill passed at the last session of the New York legislature women teachers' organizations have announced their intention to work for a measure that will provide for general equalization of men and women teachers' salaries. This has already led to a serious counting of the cost of such an undertaking.

For Greater New York the cost of increasing the women teachers' pay to a parity with the men's would reach $9,000,000 a year. In Albany the taxpayers would have to provide $25,000 a year additional school funds should the women teachers' plans go through. For Rochester the added expense for salaries would be about $55,000 annually. Ithaca $30,000, Troy $15,000 and other cities in the same proportion.

These figures are expected to cause the legislature to consider a long time before it passes another salary equalization measure. Threats of direful political consequences of voting against the women teachers' bills have lost some of their force since the assemblyman, Warren L. Lee of Kings, who was their most active opponent and against whom they waged a bitter campaign, was re-elected by a plurality of 3,540 votes, 1,645 more than he had in the previous election.

Unlike other magicians, Durno is a comedian and humorist, he uses a flow of language which is full of comedy, his voice is clear and distinct, and while listening to him one can see him produce different articles and cause them to vanish.

NEW AMERICAN INDUSTRY.

Invention Makes Possible Establishment of Linen Mills Here That Will Save Large Part of the $20,000,000 Now Spent Abroad Every Year For This Fabric.

Since Eli Whitney invented the cotton gin there has been no development in the textile industry more important than the discovery of a process of linen making commercially practicable under American labor conditions. The earlier Massachusetts inventor's problem was the separation of the cotton seed from the fiber. The problem that has now been solved by another Massachusetts genius, B. C. Mudge, was much more complicated.

He had to find a way to wrest the linen fiber from the flax straw, clean it of its woody envelope, remove the natural gums of the plant, bleach the fiber, clean and make it ready for spinning. As this work is done in the European countries by methods that have changed little in the past 2,000 years, it takes from sixteen to thirty weeks to transform flax into linen. The Mudge process in actual commercial operation does the same work in twelve hours!

Americans have been paying Europe over $20,000,000 a year for linen because the expense of old world methods of making this fabric is prohibitive with the higher priced labor of the United States. The Oxford linen mills of Boston, that now have absolute control of the Mudge process, will change all this. They can not only save from sixteen to thirty weeks of time, but get more fiber from a given amount of straw after the seed crop has been harvested. The "scutching" of the straw is done by machines and the remaining treatment of the flax by chemicals.

From the date of Whitney's invention the cotton industry has grown until its product is now valued at $500,000,000 a year. The Oxford linen mills are now founding another colossal textile industry. Using a raw material that costs less than one-third as much as cotton and with the economies of production brought about by the new process, these mills are only the pioneers of many that will soon be turning out linens of every grade with which the foreign product cannot compete.

Work is being rapidly pushed on the equipment of mills at several points, and orders are being taken for early delivery of their product. The great New York house of H. B. Claflin & Co. in giving an order the other day for 25,000 yards of linen crash told the representatives of the Oxford mills, "If you can furnish goods like this, you need seek no other market, as we will take all you can manufacture."

Divides Fortune With

NO FORMAL SETTLEMENT

The Means of the Count and Countess Szechenyi Will Be Used In Common, "In the American Manner."

Report That Gladys Vanderbilt's "Royal" Alliance Was Backed by Big Sum Indignantly Denied.

New York, Jan. 27.—In the famous Vanderbilt mansion at Fifth avenue and 57th street today at noon, Miss Gladys, youngest daughter of Mrs. Cor-nellius Vanderbilt, cousin of the Duchess of Marlborough, and one of the richest of American heiresses, became the bride of Count Laszlo Jenő Maria Henrik Simon Szechenyi, a young Hungarian noble of ancient lineage

COUNT SZECHENYI'S BRIDE.

and comfortable fortune. Last summer Miss Vanderbilt became of age and under the provision of her father's will entered into possession of her share of his great fortune, estimated at from twelve to fifteen million dollars.

Even the gossip-mongers concede that in her marriage to this comparatively obscure young Hungarian this American heiress made purely a love match. Count Laszlo is a handsome man of twenty-eight, slender and straight, his bearing betraying his military training and devotion to outdoor sports. He is not even the head of his family, being the youngest of the four sons of Count Emerich Szechenyi, who was for many years the Austro-Hungarian ambassador at

THE COUNT AND THE NEW YORK HOME OF THE BRIDE.

Berlin, and who played an important part in the negotiation of the German-Austrian alliance and was one of the limited circle of diplomats who enjoyed the close friendship of Bismarck.
The present head of the house of Szechenyi, one of the oldest and proudest of the Hungarian nobility, is Count Dionys, who until very recently was first secretary of the Austro-Hungarian embassy at Berlin.

Count Laszlo is said to have an income of some $60,000 a year and owns both town and country estates. There has been much talk of a money settlement made upon the count, but close friends of the family aver that, unlike nearly all of the recent international marriages, there was in this case no money settlement of any kind. The Countess Szechenyi retains her great fortune and has told her friends that their joint means will be used in common in the American manner. Count Laszlo's brothers and friends indignantly denied the reports of a money settlement when they arrived here a few days ago, and declared that no financial considerations of any character were involved in the marriage.

The marriage ceremony was performed by Monsignor Lavelle, rector of St. Patrick's cathedral. The weddings gifts are said to exceed a million dollars in value and have been guarded day and night by detectives.
Special police arrangements were made to handle the curious throngs which gathered today about the Vanderbilt home.

The young couple left this afternoon for Newport, where Mrs. Vanderbilt's home, "The Breakers," has been prepared for them. There they will remain until Feb. 4, when they sail for Europe.

PERSISTENT RUMORS

Proved the Undoing of the National Bank of North America.

New York, Jan. 27.—Comptroller of the Currency William B. Ridgeley has ordered the National Bank of North America closed for liquidation and appointed Charles Hanna, national bank examiner, as receiver.

The aftermath of the financial storm of last October in its effect on the bank which today closed its doors has been in the shape of heavy and persistent withdrawals, the result, according to President W. F. Havemyer, of insistent rumors set afloat respecting the bank's condition. Membership in the clearing house association enabled the bank to weather the gale for a time, but the aid extended by this association in the form of loan certificates finally became the means of bringing about the decision to go into liquidation, when the call for their redemption was intimated to the directors on Saturday last. The bank's indebtedness to the clearing house association is $2,200,000.

President Havemyer said that he believed the bank is entirely solvent and that with a careful liquidation the stockholders will receive par for their stock.

IMPORTANT CONFERENCE

The President and Railroad Men Get Together.

Washington, Jan. 27.—In pursuance of an appointment made early in the month, President Roosevelt is today having a conference with a committee of the operating vice presidents of leading railroads. The object of the conference is to bring to the attention of the president matters which the railroad men regard as materially affecting adversely railway operations in the country, and it is understood that among the subjects to be discussed will be that of legalizing pooling agreements, a matter of which the president has heretofore expressed himself as favorable to an amendment of the existing law to permit such agreements under proper supervision of the interstate commerce committee.

Mysterious Secrecy Observed.

Boston, Jan. 27.—Guarded with the utmost secrecy, Mrs. Mary Baker G.
Eddy, founder and head of the Christian Science church, was removed by special train Sunday with all her household attendants, from Pleasant View in Concord, N. H., where she has lived for nineteen years, to a new house in the fashionable Chestnut Hill section of Brookline. The coming was unheralded and only a few of the leaders of the Christian Science church had been aware of the contemplated change.

ported to have secured about $5,000, but the postoffice authorities refused to make any statement about the amount of the robbery.

CAMP MEETING ORGAN

World's Most Powerful Instrument For Ocean Grove.

HOPE-JONES TO BUILD IT.

Will Be Installed In June and Will Cost $26,000—New Devices to Be Used In It—Its Action Will Be Controlled Entirely by Electricity.

When camp meeting time comes at Ocean Grove, N. J., next summer the most powerful organ in the world will greet the worshippers in the big auditorium and accompany the congregations in the hymns, says the New York Times. The Ocean Grove association at a recent meeting closed a contract for an instrument to cost $26, 000 and weigh about twenty tons.
Robert Hope-Jones, who built the famous organ in the Worcester cathedral in England, will supervise the construction of the instrument and has promised to have it installed by June.

Mr. Hope-Jones now lives in Elmira, N. Y. He installed one of his instruments in St. Patrick's cathedral, in New York city, two years ago, and one of his organs is to be installed in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, in New York. The contract was awarded to him after a committee of the Ocean Grove association had consulted some of the foremost organists in the United States.

"The Ocean Grove instrument will be the most powerful in the world," said Mr. Hope-Jones the other night. "It will not be the largest, because with improvements of recent years not so much space will be needed. It will have some devices which have never before been used. One of the most interesting of these will be an electric system which will preserve the proper tone of the instrument, no matter what the weather may be. This device will be of the greatest importance in the Ocean Grove Auditorium, because it is so near the water. The various pipes and resonators will be wound with wires, which will be connected with an electrical device which automatically will keep them at the proper temperature.

"The organ itself will be of remarkable construction. The large organs heretofore have been divided into departments—great, swell, choir, pedal and solo—but this one will be a unit with a few rows of keys. By the use of a set of stop keys, which are connected electrically with all the various sound producing devices, any of these may be drawn on any set of keys instantly at any pitch and any power.

"The various tone families will be grouped together, and each family will be inclosed in a separate box constructed of brickwork. Each of these boxes will be sealed with heavy laminated lead shutters, and the organist will have the power of opening or closing these shutters, as desired. By this means he will be able to graduate the strength of his diapasons, flutes and trumpets exactly as desired.

"For instance, the great tuba mir-abilis will be voiced on fifty inches of wind and will in itself exceed in power the whole of any organ hitherto built. Because it will be inclosed in brickwork and so arranged otherwise its tone may be allowed free scope or may be reduced to a mere whisper that will not overpower a single solo voice.

"The action of the organ will be controlled entirely by electricity. All of the electric contacts will be made between pure gold and pure platinum.

These metals, which will cost hundreds of dollars, have been found to be more reliable than any others.

"The pressures of wind used will vary from ten inches up to fifty inches of water. In spite of this, the instrument will be much more refined and musical in effect than the large organs usually met with because of various new devices. One of these will be the diaphone, which was tried at St. Patrick's cathedral. In it the vibration which produces the tone is accomplished with an aluminum piston vibrated in a cylinder. Its vibrations in the higher tones reach up to 4,000 a second. It will be employed for the first time in America. It is in use in some of the organs I have built on the other side."

Tali Esen Morgan, organist of the Ocean Grove Auditorium, is arranging a series of daily organ recitals to be given during the summer. The leading organists of America and of Europe will be invited to play on the new instrument.

Tobacco Chewing Hen.

Ex-Mayor Miller of Youngstown, O., claims he has a hen which chews tobacco, says the Pittsburg Dispatch.
He says she enjoys it and will accept any brand, although she is particularly fond of fine cut. She will not sit unless provided with a little of the weed.
She also will chew gum. The hen takes it into her mouth and allows it to lie on her tongue until it is soft and then works her jaws like the typical Bowery girl.

Head Bumps as Storm Signals.

Dr. E. H. Welch of Winsted, Conn., is said to be able to predict changes in the weather twenty-four hours before they come by bumps that arise on his head, says the New York Evening World. One bump means rain, two snow and three a windstorm. The bumps are nearly as large as doorknobs, the doctor says. He thinks an attack of rheumatism he had one time made his head sensitive to atmospheric changes.

NEW TELEGRAPH COMPANY HAS STRONG ORGANIZATION.

Adopts Plan to Prevent Merger With Old Wire Companies.

With an authorized capital of $18, 000,000 and control of the most highly perfected system of rapid automatic telegraphy, enabling it to make rates far lower than those of the old companies, the new telegraph company known as the Telepost starts its career with every prospect of success.

There is no danger that this company will suffer the fate of so many of its predecessors and pass into the control of rival interests. By a trusteeship agreement absolute power has been given to each member of a board of five trustees to veto any attempt by outsiders to merge, absorb, reorganize or control the company.

The Telepost board is as follows: Captain W. J. Barnette, general board, navy department; A. K. Brown, president Kenwood Trust and Savings bank, Chicago; Thomas Conyngham of Conyngham & Harrison; H. D. Critch-field, president Milwaukee Independent Telephone company; R. H. Sellers, secretary and treasurer Telepost company; H. Lee Sellers, president Tele-post company, and C. H. Stillman, banker, New York.

It will be "worth your while" to see DURNO and Company at the Grand Theatre, Monday, Jan. 27th.

BIG TWO OCEAN NAVY

Best Method of Avoiding War, Claims Justice Harlan.

DOES NOT EXPECT ONE SOON.

But It May Come Unexpectedly, Believes Supreme Court Jurist, if Nation Is Not Prepared—Thinks All Our Seaports Should Be Made Strong

Justice John Marshall Harlan's talk at the recent Navy league dinner in Washington, when he prophesied a war some time between the white and yellow races which would "shake the earth" and at the same time entered a vigorous plea for immediate and substantial increase of the navy, has aroused the widest interest in Washington, says a special dispatch to the New York Times.

It has not been possible to obtain a full stenographic report of what Justice Harlan said, and he declines to be quoted in further explanation of his views. It is possible, however, to give in substance an outline of some of the views of the justice.

He believes it to be of paramount importance to make immediate and extensive preparation for war, not because he apprehends the occurrence of war with any nation, but because he believes that in the most efficient preparation for it lies the best method of avoiding it.

This thorough preparation, in his opinion, involves the creation of a great two ocean navy, and if he had his way he would, as he said at the Navy league dinner, vote $50,000,000 a year for ten years for the construction of battleships and the general equipment of the navy. In his view it is not only necessary to increase materially the number of fighting ships, but to see that from year to year others are constructed to take the places of those which are outgrown in point of fighting ability by the advance in naval construction.

He believes that a nation which is weak in martial spirit or which has not a strong navy is in danger of being forced into war when it is not desired and when the nation is least able to meet such an emergency. The American people are not for conquest, he says, and do not want war. There is no territory that they desire, and the probable fact is that they have more now than they desire. They would have rejected emphatically the Philippines as a gift; but, having assumed the responsibility for them as an act of war, they are bound to live up to that responsibility and discharge the duty it imposes on them by affording the islands the fullest protection.

In conjunction, therefore, with his belief in the obligation to build ships he holds that it is the duty of the country to fortify thoroughly every seaport under the American flag and make it impregnable. War comes suddenly, he says, and from the most peaceful outlook it may develop before it is possible to make preparations or even build a battleship, much less a navy.

As he views the general outlook for the United States there is no nation with which we are in any prospect of having war. But that does not impair the obligation of the country to make ready for the unforeseen emergency.
President McKinley strove to his utmost to prevent war with Spain, but in spite of him it came and in less time from the moment when it was first suggested than it takes to construct even one of the smallest naval vessels.

Although Justice Harlan believes that the time is coming when there will be a gigantic contest for supremacy between the white and yellow races, he does not apprehend that the struggle is at all imminent. When it does come, he wants the United States to be thoroughly ready, and one of the first elements of preparation, in his opinion, is the creation and maintenance of a great two ocean navy.

Novel Use For the Lawn.

Midwinter lawn parties may acquire a vogue up Long Island sound if the efforts of one Larchmont woman be successful, says the New York Press.
This woman, animated by fervent belief in the fresh air idea, thinks there's no reason why her lawn shouldn't be enjoyed in winter as well as in summer. So without having the snow cleared off her flower beds she will have the walks kept open, and the first time the flakes fly in earnest she purposes bidding dozens of friends to her home for an afternoon in the open.
There will be fancy skating on the largest stretch of lawn, which is to be flooded for the purpose, with a miniature toboggan slide at the opposite side of the grounds. Tea, punch, and other refreshments will be served on small tables, with chairs and foot warmers for the comfort of the less athletic.
Snowball fights, the making of snow men and other winter sports and diversions are on the programme. It's more than possible society will welcome the innovation, if only for its novelty.

Teaching Children by Dolls.

Kindergarten methods of educating young children have always been a pronounced success, says Leslie's Weekly. Recently a new phase of the system was invented and put into effect by a Belgian lady, Mme. Pecher.
She teaches young children by dolls, representing personages and scenes in European history, arranged in order of time, from the earliest dates. The plan works excellently, the children in this way acquiring historical knowledge with ease.
